“ Director’s Message

Embracing the freedom to read is a cornerstone of our community and the heart of what we stand for at Carroll County Public Library. I find immense joy in sharing this fundamental right with all of you through every aspect of our library.

As you know, our library isn’t just a place with books; it’s a haven where knowledge knows no bounds and diverse perspectives are celebrated. Imagine the power of being able to explore a world of ideas, entertain your curiosity by discovering new perspectives, and escape into new realms of imagination, all within the walls of your public library. This is the essence of the freedom to read that we hold dear.

As readers, learners, and explorers, you are the heart of our library. Every time you step through our doors or delve into our digital resources, you’re embracing the spirit of intellectual growth and curiosity. The freedom to read empowers you to form your own opinions, encourages you to ask questions, and provides a way to gain new insights that shape your understanding of the world.

By cherishing the freedom to read, you become part of a literacy legacy that spans generations. Your engagement, whether through borrowing books, attending events, or simply sharing your thoughts, contributes to a vibrant and informed community. So let’s continue to celebrate this freedom together, nurturing an environment where ideas flow freely and learning knows no boundaries. That is the real meaning of Infinite Possibilities.

TWO SIDES TO THE STORY PODCAST

1 YEAR ANNIVERSARY

TWO SIDES CELEBRATES 1 YEAR

All Ages

Celebrate the one year anniversary of Two Sides to the Story podcast with us.

Recently, CCPL had the opportunity to interview Ted Zaleski & Lory Hierstetter, dual hosts of a local podcast called Two Sides To The Story. Ted and Lory are Carroll County locals and longtime lovers of literature, and their podcast reflects that.

Ted and Lory have worked for Carroll County for several years with Ted having worked 30 years and Lory 12 years. Both hosts also spend a lot of time in libraries and have a deeply profound appreciation of books. They were able to connect thanks to these mutual interests, become friends, and establish a podcast to share those same interests with the wider community.

When asked about how they came up with their podcast, Ted answered with "Who knows? I was talking to Lory about some ideas I had; one was a year of reading Toni Morrison. Our conversations evolved and one day I said to Lory that it felt more like our podcast than my podcast. That led to a process of figuring out what our podcast would be." Lory elaborated, explaining that "He asked me what I thought and if I had any other ideas for what he could include in the podcast. My wheels started turning. Three pages later, I had a bunch of ideas for other book related areas he could explore on the show. He asked me to work on the podcast with him. I wasn't sure at first, but Ted was. And now here we are."

Ted and Lory agree that they've shaped the podcast into a mechanism meant to connect and support folks who enjoy reading. They accomplish this by interviewing librarians, book sellers, writers, publishers, and anyone else they meet who is involved in the creation, distribution, or appreciation of books, members of the community who love books as much as they do. Though they might seem difficult to find considering that when asked what he loved most about books, Ted said "Hmm...What do I love about oxygen?"

When asked more about the importance of books Ted had this to say "Books take us places. Books make us think. Books change us. Libraries and bookstores make all of that possible." He elaborated, saying "Libraries are magical places. Libraries are filled with possibilities. I want them to evolve with a changing world without losing the magic, especially for kids. I'll never forget the first time I walked into a library."

You can listen to Ted and Lory's podcast, Two Sides To The Story, on their website <https://www.twosides2thestory.com>.

EXPLORATION COMMONS AT 50 EAST

Once again this summer, Exploration Commons at 50 East partnered with The ARC to host a Summer Youth Employment student.

Darren Gerber joined us for his first job and summer work experience. He worked 2-3 days a week for a total of 47.5 hours in the Teaching Kitchen learning skills such as chopping, mixing and weighing, and proper washing and sanitizing of dishware, equipment and work areas. Darren was responsible for setting up programs and assisting participants during the classes. He even completed his ServSafe® Food Handler Certificate. Darren also participated in a grocery store excursion and was hosted by Bernie Vogel at JeannieBird Baking Company for a tour - and a treat!

We asked Darren for a few highlights of his time at Exploration Commons

Favorite recipes:

Chocolate chip cookies and hush puppies.

Favorite kitchen moments:

Cooking and eating new foods. Learning to cook bacon!

Least favorite kitchen moment:

Cleaning clams and mussels.

Why he likes the kitchen:

It's fun and I learned new things - like rolling summer rolls and making waffles from scratch.

From Darren's parents:

Darren enjoys having responsibility and helping others. He really enjoyed his time going to work!

From Darren's Job Coach:

Darren has learned more than cooking. He gained social skills, learned kitchen procedures and gained insight into having job responsibilities and meeting workplace expectations.

Darren was accompanied by job coach Patti Moran and worked with Exploration Teaching Kitchen Staff Karen Suzanne Daniel, Katie Haines, Candace Birger, and Nancy Farace. All enjoyed his inquisitive nature and hard work.

Darren is 17 years old and a Senior at Century High School where he is active in LEO design club. He enjoys video games and volunteering. At the end of his program, Darren gleefully asked if we thought he was ready to get a job and was going home to create his resume.

The Summer Youth Employment Programs allow eligible high school and post-secondary students the opportunity to work in community businesses over the summer with job coach support. The student interns work for 6 weeks and receive minimum wage from the DORS (Division of Rehabilitation Services) Program. Carroll County Public Library and Exploration Commons at 50 East are pleased to offer work based experiences to support CCPS students.

The ARC Carroll County and Carroll County Public Schools have partnered for over 18 years, providing educational support services to high school students and students in the Post-Secondary Program ages 18-21.

Don't miss out on a great learning experience. Find programs to attend at EC50 on our calendar of events: <https://ccpl.librarymarket.com/events/month?branches=391>
