Lewis Contractors Announced as Contractor for Innovative Library Project

Carroll County, MD – Carroll County Public Library (CCPL) has announced the selection of Lewis Contractors of Owings Mills for the upcoming Exploration Commons at 50 East (Exploration Commons).

Carroll County Public Library is transforming the 14,000 sf lower level of the Westminster Branch into an interactive community space offering a tech-focused Makerspace, Professional Teaching Kitchen, and multiple collaborative workspaces. Exploration Commons is an extension of the library, as well as a unique destination offering access to the latest technologies, tools, and resources. Construction is expected to begin this July with an opening in 2021. Fundraising will make this project possible. You can find full information and opportunities for supporting the project at <https://explorationcommons.carr.org/>.

Lewis Contractors is an award-winning, family-owned and operated construction management and general contracting firm with over a half century of experience. Engaging in all types of academic, institutional, restoration, industrial, and commercial projects, the Lewis team delivers a tradition of excellence, innovative thinking, and attention to detail. Some notable builds and renovations include Havre de Grace Library, Port Discovery Children’s Museum renovation, McDaniel College Merritt Fitness Center addition, Everyman Theatre, Towson University Public Safety Building, and the Cal Ripken, Sr. Foundation. More information about Lewis Contractors may be found at <http://lewis-contractors.com/>.

“CCPL looks forward to the start of construction for this innovative community-focused project. We are pleased to find a contractor who understands the uniqueness of our new space and who has stepped up as a partner to help us bring Exploration Commons to life.” Andrea Berstler, Executive Director of CCPL
